Abstract Human being is the main body of sustainable development. The lack of communication, a basic human behavior, will lead to an inadequate development of sustainability. With the advent of Web 2.0, general publics have had new understanding of communication. The share of information, driven from communication, has caused a deeper interpersonal relationship. Nowadays, internet as an emerging communication media has taken up most of people's life. What could traditional poster do for the sustainable development of communication?

See around! Everyone is making great efforts for sustainability!
You can make a pot of green tea to enjoy the whole afternoon, feeling of concerning around better than to buy plastic bottles of tea!
During lunch on the table water you so hot and upset at night before expecting to enjoy a comfortable - long ago
keeping food supply without negative effect on environment
Stay at the University + Study sustainability!
It is important to prepare the world for the generation to come! So we must not destroy our current environment!
