FOREWORD

This annotated bibliography of scientific writings by Prof. Chihisa Watanabe has been prepared in commemoration of his retirement from the professorship at the Hokkaido University in March, 1971. Prof. Watanabe, internationally known entomologist, is one of the leading taxonomists of the Braconidae. His interest covers certain other groups of insects, in which his works serve as major references. Prof. Watanabe is a pioneer-promoter in biological control of insects and nature conservation in Japan.

Prof. Watanabe has never retired to his home. He is an active entomologist, continuing his work at the laboratory of the Entomological Institute, Hokkaido University. We fully expect his further works to be completed here forever!
